Your comment	Our response
We feel we need more feedback when our child is not meeting expected standard.	All our teachers are more than happy to provide guidance and advice should this be needed.
The homework is sometimes a bit hard and there is too much.	It is hard to strike the right balance with homework. Some families request more than what is supplied, others want less. We feel the homework is reflective of the expectations placed on pupils as the progress to high school.
We would benefit from more differentiated spellings.	Spellings are set in line with the expectations of each year group.
It would be nice if there were more extra-curricular clubs across the week.	We have before and after school clubs on most days of the week.
It would be good if there were more after/before school clubs for younger year groups.	We do try to spread the access to clubs across the year. Ensuring each year group gets their fair share of activities.
